ANABLE AND HIS OFFICE-PERSONAL. For several hours yesterday morning the custom-house was agitated by the ugly report that the appointment of Colonel W. W. Besides that, Colonel Forbes has always been rather kindly disposed towards her, and never joined the ranks of her defamers. Miss Lizzie had very strong friends near the President, and at one time, it is certain, she was assured by persons thoroughly wellnformed that she could go home in full confidence that she would not be disturbed. But after that a change came over the presidential mind, and when people would speak of Miss Lizzie's loyalty, her services to the Union, how well the post-office under her management had been conducted, and all that, he would quietly ask: "Is her reappointment expedient? Will it be popular? That is what I want to know."

The answers to these interrogatories could not have been of a very reassuring kind, judging by the result.

The appointment of Colonel Forbes has given very general satisfaction. The business-men, with few exceptions, seem to approve of the choice, and the Republicans with equal unanimity express their gratifision-that Colonel Forbes was the most

THE ILLICIT DISTILLERS-THE LATE FIGHT ON POWELL'S MOUNTAIN .- It now appears that Revenue-Officer Joslyn was not killed in the recent fight between the illicit meeting of the two branches of the City distillers or bushwhackers and sheriff's Council on the first Monday in July to elect | posse on Powell's Mountain, on the line between Virginia and Tennessee. On Monday, after they had gone home, a company of bushwhackers, numbering about forty men, came up and demanded the blood of the men who had arrested the distillers as the only thing that would satisfy them. There was only a handful of men in the posse, but they fought the bushwhackers, four of whom were wounded-two mortally and two slightly. One of Mr. Doyle's men was killed. These facts are no doubt correct, as they are furnished by the sheriff of Lee county, who is now in Richmond.
